NOTABLE SPEECHES AT A DEN-VER BANQUET.

Holmes of England Speaks on the Relation of a Double Standard to English Politics—Whar-ton Barker.

ited Press Leased-wire Ser

DENVER (Colo.,) Dec. 11.—Two notable speeches on bimetallism were delivered at the banquet of the Denver Manufacturers' Exchange tonight. David Holmes of Burn-ley, England, chairman of the Parlia-mentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress of the United Kingdom, representing 1,250,000 wage-earners, speaking to the toast, "Bimetallism and Wage to the toast, "Bimetallism and Wage-earners," said:
"Thinking men account for the present trade depression by the appreciation of gold and consequent demonstization of silver in 1873 and since. If silver is resilver in 1873 and since. If silver is restored to its former position, it will revive trade and commerce the world over. Public opinion in England has recently grown rapidly on the subject and textile workers and others are co-operating with the Bimetallic League. The recent experiment of the British government with the financial and currency question in India is a flat failure and the Indian government is at its with an other property. ernment is at its with end to raise the necessary revenue. Bimetallism will be an important factor at the next British gen-eral election in 1835 and will be a tect on the question in Lancashtre and other constituencies for parliamentary candi-

Hon. Wharton Barker of Philadelphia, speaking on "Bimetallism and Manufactures," said: "The professers of political science in Great Britain, men in the front rank in Europe and America, favor bimetallism; the opposition comes from money-lenders. The demoralization of silver has contracted the world's money almost one-half and appreciated gold to the great advantage of the creditor class and the damage and ruin of the debtor and the damage and ruin of the debtor class. The proposed pan of bank currency set forth in President Cleveland's mes-set forth the president cleveland by set forth in President Cleveland's mes-sage should be opposed by every citizen who has the welfare of the people at heart. Bimetallism must be restored by inde-pendent action by America and can be whenever the people are determined to have financial as well as industrial inde-pendence; to abandon British gold mono-metallism as they have done British free trade; whenever they know the difference between an American policy and an alien policy."

petween an American policy and an alten policy."

He suggested that America admit silver from American mines to coinage upon payment of seignio age absorbing three-fourths of the difference between the London price and trade value and that foreign silver to be admitted for coinage at a seigniorage absorbing all the difference between London price and coinage value.

"The road to American prosperity," he said, "is bimetallism and protection. A true protective system will protect American labor, extend American commerce and at the same time preclude trusts, combinations and monopolies."

SCRAPPING LAWYERS

Attorney Jackson Shoots at the Face of Attorney Ferguson.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

SALT LAKE, (Utah.) Dec. 11.—The law SALT LAKE, (Utah.) Dec. 11.—The law office of Ferguson, Frew & Jackson was the scene yesterday of a desperate "scrapping match," such as lawyers seldom engage in. As a result Attorney Tom Ferguson is under the surgeon's care and Attorney G. P. F. Jackson is in the City Jail. Both Ferguson and Jackson are members of the same legal firm, of which Frew is the third partner. There has been some dissatisfaction and a dissolution of the partnership was being arranged. The disagreements connected therewith were the cause of the row.

Jackson's story, as told to the officers, is to the effect that a telegram to him was received at the office and was opened; that he went to see about it and a quarrel ensued, in which Ferguson was getting the best of him and was "pounding the life out of him;" that when Ferguson had him on the floor he drew his pistol in self-defense and fired at Ferguson's face.

in self-defense and nreq at rergusons face.

Frew says the telegram was not opened, but came to the office and that a friend of Jackson's named Rabbitte took possession of it. Frew objected and said that he would send it to Jackson at the Manitou. In taking the telegram from Rabbitte, a corner of the envelope was torn off, but the telegram was untouched. In this condition it was sent to Jackson's room at the hotel. Rabbitte is from California and is said to be one of a syndicate which sold some mines to the Mercury Company. He and Frew remained in the outer office while Jackson went in to Ferguson.

TRIAL OF DR. COURTENAY AT ST. LOUIS.

Although a Married Man He Becam Infatuated with Brewer Schilling's Daughter and Re-sented Coldness.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 11.—The sensational case in which Dr. Edward St. George Courtenay is charge with having assaulted and attempted to kill Miss Minnie Schilling daughter of the late brewer Schilling, ha been taken up in the Criminal Court. Courtenay was arraigned yesterday and entered a plea of not guilty. The shooting occurred on March 20, 1894, and created a sensation in Compt Hill society circles, where Miss Schilling who is only 19 years old and believed to be worth $20,000 in her own right, was both prominent and popular. She had known Dr. Courtenay for a long time, and known Dr. Courtenay for a long time, and he had become infatuated with either her money or her beauty. Courtenay, however, was married and trouble with his wife followed as a natural consequence. Miss Schiling, in order to evade the man's unwelcome attentions, went to live with a friend, Mrs. Lewig, at No. 3120 Eads avenue.

On the day of the shooting Courtenay called at Mrs. Lewig's house and persuaded Miss Schilling to see him. Almost as soon as she appeared he drew a resuaded Miss Schilling to see him. Almost as soon as she appeared he drew a revolver and fired three shots, only one of which took effect. The wound was not serious, but Miss Schilling sank to the floor in a faint and Courtenay, apparently under the impression that he had killed her, turned the weapon on himself, He almost succeeded in killing himself, but recovered, after spending several weeks in the hospital.

Since his removal to the jail, it is thought that Courtenay has been feigning insanity. He has given conflicting expla-nations of his conduct and has told num-erous stories which do not appear to have any foundation in fact. Courtenay and his wife have become reconciled and she was in court yesterday when the case was called. Miss Schilling was also there and attracted a good deal of attention.

Conductor Cannon and En gineer Smith had charge of the train and Messenger Harrington was in the express car. When the train reached the bridge the two robbers, who were secreted on the engine, commanded the engineer to stop the train, which was done. The fire-man and engineer were marched to the express car, where other bandits joined them. The messenger was ordered to open the door and was told by the ban-dits to throw up his hands and "get down out of there." Harrington leaped to the ground and took to the woods, followed by a volley from six shot-guns. One of the robbers went through the express car and found the through the express car and found the through safe locked. All that the robbers secured was the messenger's gun. Pullman Conductor Brown jumped off the sleeper to see what was happening, and was fired upon. One of the bullets entered through his coat, just over his heart, and was wedged in a bundle of letters.

The robbers then went through the coaches, taking everything valuable which the passengers possessed. About $500 and ten or fifteen watches were secured. After the bandits had done their work they fired several volleys and disappeared into the woods. Deputy marshals are on the trail with bloodhounds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—SENATE.—
In the Senate today Senator Dolph reported a memorial from the citizens of Phoenix, Ariz., in the matter of Indian depredation claims. Senator Berry of Arkanasas made a few remarks, urging the passing of the bill introduced by him last week to establish the Territory of Indi-anola out of Indian Territory. Senator Morrill (Rep.) of Vermont then addressed the Senate on "Some Marvelous Bills and Quack Panaceas for Real and Imaginary Grievances." The bills con-cerning which the Senator spoke were those introduced by Senator Peffer, pro-viding for the issue of great sums of greenbacks for various purposes. He devoted some time to the consideration of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and declared that instrument presented no obstacle to the construction of the canal by the United construction of the canal by the United States and to the control of it. Mr. Dolph said that the United States had adopted a policy, had declared a principle, which is approved by her people and well unproved by her people and well un-od by the world, which is just, right and in the interest of the people of this hemisphere and will be maintained at all hazards

In a brief speech Senator Sherma pointed out that the only provision of the Nicaragua bill that he was not entirely satisfied with was the amount to be paid to the Maritime Company, which, he thought, was entitled only to the amount of money expended in the enterprise thus far. White answered that he did not think the Secretary's plan would give the elastic currency that it sought to secure. It compelled the banks to put up 30 cents every time they issued 75 cents.

Mr. Walker of Massachusetts asked if the bill presented by Mr. White would secure a safe and uniform currency.

"It will have that tendency," said White. "That is not it," said Mr. Walker, "we do not want to provide a tendency toward a safe currency, but the actual safety."

"I am not omniscient," suggested White. He added that, in his judgment, the bill would secure an elastic currency. Secretary Carlisle came in at this point and was an interested listener to White's answer to questions as to the want of restrictions should be imposed on State banks.

White said that he would subject State banks to the same regulations as those imposed on national banks.

Mr. Cox of Tennessee asked if this would not do away with the State banks.

White answered that it would. He said that he believed in one uniform banking system, not State systems, there being forty-four States.

Mr. Carlisle then resumed his statement begun yesterday. He presented the bill he had prepared embodying his plan of currency revision and read it to the committee, commenting on it as he proceeded. In the first section all acts relating to the deposit of United States bonds to secure circulating notes of national banks are repealed. The second section provides for the issuing of circulating notes to a national bank equal to 75 per cent. of the paid-up and unimpaired capital upon depositing legal tender notes with the United States equal to 50 per cent. of the circulating notes applied for. These circulating notes shall be in denominations of $10 and multiples of ten and shall be uniform indesign.

The third section levies a duty of onactional banks circulation. The next section provides for the mode of redemption and retirement of a bank's notes in circulation. The next section provides for the mode of redemption and retirement of a bank's circulation. Sec. 5 creates the safety fund for the prompt redemption of circulating notes and failed national banks. Each bank shall pay to the United States Treasurer in the months of January and July in each year-a tax of one-quarter of 1 per cent. for each half year upon the verage amount of its circulating notes utstanding until said fund amounts to 5 er cent. of the total amount of national ank notes outstanding, and thereafter aid tax shall cease. A bank retiring or soutching its circulation shall be entitled or withdraw any part of its fund. The node of procedure in case of a bank's measure.

The following section provides that the Secretary of the Treasury may, in his discretion, redeem and retire United States legal-tender notes; that no United States or treasury notes, authorized by the act of July 1, 1890, of a denomination of less than $10 shall be issued. Sec. 10 states that banks duly organized under the laws of any State, and which transact a national banking business, shall be exempt from any taxation regulating State banks. Sec. 11 provides that State banks shall not issue notes similar in design to United States notes, or certificates or national-bank notes.

sign to United States notes, or certificates or national-bank notes.

When he had concluded reading the bill, Mr. Carlisie explained in detail. He pointed out the various sections of the present law proposed to be repealed. Concerning the conditions imposed upon State banks by his bill, he said that certain features had been added to meet criticisms made of the plan, as outlined in the contract of the plan as outlined in th tain features and been added to meet refitciens made of the plan, as outlined in the annual report.

Mr. Brosius asked whether it was not desirable for the government to assume the risk of redeeming notes, rather than leave it to the banks.

Mr. Carlisle answered in the negative. He said that he did not believe in government responsibility, further than in providing the most ample safeguards.

The Secretary showed the profits of national banks, under the proposed plan, as compared with their profits under the present law. He showed that additional profits and inducements would incline national banks to take out circulation. In the course of the discussion, Mr. Carlisle said that he did not think any immediate retirement of the United States treasury notes, was practicable. The Secretary spoke of Comptroller Eckel's plan. Without wishing to criticise it, he thought its fatal defect was in requiring national banks to take out two different kinds of circulating notes.

White began with a reference to the banks to take out two different kinds of circulating notes.

White began with a reference to the Baltimore plan, calling attention to the fact that it deals with only part of the banking business, that of isuing circulating notes, a function not indispensable, but valuable to the people. He held that it was the paramount right and duty of the State to provide for the safety of the community. Hence it may prescribe the regulations under which circulating notes shall be issued, or gunpowder be stored, or liquor be sold. It is not bound to give equal privileges to all persons to exercise these functions.

The first half of the address was devoted The first half of the address was devoted largely to a historical review of banks in this country and particularly the New York mafety fund system of days prior to the war, which White extolled at length. The latter part of White's address was devoted exclusively to the Baltimore plan. Referring to the fact that it makes circulating notes a first lien on the assets of the bank, he said: "There is an outery against this content of the property depositor will suffer. But what is the conmotion of the poor depositors now? Are not motes a first lien on the assets? Can any depositor get any part of this fund until the notes are paid in full? And, supposing that the bonds should ever fall short of paying the notes, could the depositor get any part of the remaining assets until the par value of the notes was deducted? Of course not."

White said that he saw no objection to repeal of the 10 per cent tax on State ix motes, provided that the State banks aply with all the requirements of the ional banking law, and provided that means of enforcing these requirements lodged with the Comptroller of the rency; but a mere power of observativithout the power of indorsement, he, i, he considered unwise, unsafe and to cause embarrassment, and to end disaster.

sure to cause embarrassment, and to end in disaster.

He considered as desirable, though not indispensable, that the government shall continue as now, responsible for the redemption of banknotes. The Baltimore plan simply takes the law as it inds it. It makes a change in the manner of reimbursing the government for the redemption of falled notes. The only question is whether the suggested change puts the government to any greater risk. This is a question of mathematics. It is to be answered by the tables of bank mortality in the past thirty-one years.

extinguished, not merely temporarily withdrawn.

"My reason," he said, in conclusion, "for desiring the extinction of the legal tender notes is that they are a constant menace to business in that they have kept political parties in hot water for thirty years and have obstructed progress and reform."

The shipment of gold was discussed at much length. Mr. Carlisle said that the less of gold was very heavy after the passage of the Sherman law. The loss of our gold had brought on financial distrust and had threatened panic. But there had been no real danger. These panics were largely the result of sentiment and public feeling, instead of well-based fears.

During a general discussion between Mr. Carlisle and miembers of the committee the Secretary referred to the issuing of bonds. He said that as much as he regretted it, he saw no way of preventing the further issue of bonds as long as the present system remained.

Homer of Baltimore then addressed the committee on the Baltimore plan. He spoke of the requisite that a banknote be secure. The proposed plan undertook to provide this requisite without the necessity of a government bond. Uniformity was another requisite of safe banking. It was also secured by the proposed plan, go that the system would be truly national, uniform in all States, instead of varying in each of the forty-four States.

MR. WHITE'S BILL.

Following is a synopsis of the bill presented to the Banking and Currency Committee by Horace White:

The first section provides that no banking association shall be required to deposit United States bonds either as a preliminary to the commencement of banking business or for the security of circulating notes to be hereafter issued.

or for the security of circulating business to be hereafter issued.

The second section provides that, in lieu of the deposits of bonds, each national banking association shall be entitled to receive circulating notes from the Comptroller to the amount of (blank) per cent. of its paid-up, unimpaired capital, upon paying to the Treasurer lawful money to the amount of 2 per cent. of such circulating notes, and thereafter a tax at the rate of one-half of 1 per cent. per annum upon the average amount of its circulation for the year. The 1 per cent and the proceeds of the tax are to constitute a guarantee fund for the redemption of notes of insolvent national banks, and the tax is to be collected until the fund amounts to less than 5 per cent. of the entire circulation issued. This fund is also to be in addition to the 5 per cent. of the amount of the circulating hotes provided for, each association shall be attiled to receive from the Comptroller circulating notes to the amount of 25 per cent. of such addition and that the tax of one-half of 1 per cent.

per annum on the average amount of the same outstanding, and additional tax at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum upon the amount of such additional circulation outstanding for the year, all of which sums are to be a part of the guarantee fund.

The sixth section is devoted to the insolvency of national banking associations, and it is provided that when such insolvency shall be ascertained in the case of any particular association, its outstanding circulating notes shall be redeemed by the Treasurer of the United States out of the guarantee fund, if that be sufficient, and, if not sufficient, out of any fund in the treasury. After the loss on account of any particular failure has been made good to the guarantee fund the United States is first to be paid for all advances made.

The seventh section provides that associations applying for circulation, atter the first payments into the guarantee fund shall have been made, shall receive circulating notes from the Comptroller upon paying into the fund a sum bearing a ratio to the circulation applied for and allowed which the guarantee fund bears to the total circulation outstanding.

The ninth section provides that whenever banknotes are issued to any association under this act, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to cancellegal tender United States notes and treasury notes to the amount of 80 per cent. of the bank notes so issued.

The next section gives power to any association to retire its circulation or any part of it at any time, upon depositing with the treasury an amount equal to the sum desired to be withdrawn.

The last section repeals sec. 9 of the act of June 20, 1874, which provides that the amount of 80 per cent.

desired to be withdrawn.

The last section repeals sec. 9 of the act of July 12, 1882, and also the portion of the act of June 20, 1874, which provides that the amount of bonds on deposit for circulation shall not be redeemed below 550,000, and provides that any association heretofore organized desiring to withdraw its circulating notes in whole or in part, may do 30 under the provisions of the act of June 20, 1874, modified as above indicated.

GUTHRIE (Okla.,) Dec. 11.—A squad of deputy United States marshals have just unearthed a powerful and dangerous gang of counterfeiters who have been acting in conjunction with confederates in several States. A chance word uttered by an intoxicated member of the gang led to a raid and the subsequent lodging in the United States Jail of Guy Harper. L. Crawford, Joseph Tillery, Jesse Lockett and Sam Lockett, leaders of the gang. After shadowing these men three months, the outlaws were nabbed and compelled to lead the officers to an underground cavern a few miles east of Perkins, used by the counterfeiters as a mint and rendezvous.

After locating the cave, the officers organized and armed themselves and, at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, descended into the cavern. They burst in a door and covered twenty-five men with Winchestera. The counterfeiters were taken by surprise and failed to show fight and scattered through hidden exits. Every man escaped, but it afterwards developed that the prisoners were the leaders of the gang and two tubs full of dimes, quarters and nickels, besides a costly assortment of molds and other paraphernalia.

The men have been operating in the cave nearly eight months and much of the spurious coin was boxed and expressed to agents in Western States. All the prisoners seemed to be educated and are well-dressed. Tillery was at one time an employee in the mint at Philadelphia.

umber of people who sustained painful

In addition to these there was a large number of people who sustained painful injuries.

Both the West Madison-street and Milwaukee-avenue cable lines run through the tunnel, and at the time the accident occurred, 6:30 o'clock, all the west-bound cars were jammed to suffocation with people returning from business on the south side of the river. A Madison-street cable train, consisting of a grip car and two trailers, were two-thirds of the way down the incline toward the bottom of the tunnel, when a cable train on the Milwaukee-avenue line, also consisting of three cars, entered the tunnel. Almost immediately after starting down the slope, Gripman Moran, of the Milwaukee-avenue line, lost his hold on the cable and the car shot forward down the steep ineline.

Moran rang his aiarm bell and he and the conductor set all the brakes on the train, but were unable to hold it and, just as the bottom of the tunnel was reached, the runaway cars struck the Madison-street train with awful force, smashing its rear car into splinters and demolishing the Milwaukee-avenue grip car. Both cars were piled up in a heap, from which such passengers as were capable of moving crawled out, battered and bleeding.

Each of the two wrecked cars held about seventy-five passengers and that a number of them were not instantly killed is a wonder. To add to the horror of the accident, one of the wrecked cars caught fire and began to blaze furiously. All the people injured on both cars had been removed before the fire became dangerous, however. A number of people were pinioned in the wreck and others were held fast between the wrecksers and the walls of the tunnel. All of them were quickly removed and the fire was extinguished by an engine company. The cause of the accident was the breaking of the grip of the Milwaukee-avenus car.

The Queer Story of H. E. MacFarland, Who Claims the Beward—The Fugitive Discusses the Arrest.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—H. E. MacFarland is the hame given by the man who caused the arrest of the man supposed to be Seely, the fugitive New York embezzler. When MacFarland returned to the Central station the second time he consented, with some show of reluctance, to tell the story of his first meeting with Seely eight days ago on Deafborn street between Madison and Washington streets. He said:

"He spoke to me as a man does who is unacquainted, and asked how to reach the Roby racetrack. I had nothing to do, and offered to show him the way to the depot. I walked as far as Adams street with him and told him to take the street car to the Union Depot. Then he invited me to go with him and I accepted the invitation. When we started for the track he told me that his name was C. G. Evans. We went to the races and he lost $98, if I remember correctly. He seemed to have plenty of money, and when we started back to the city he invited me to accompany him to the racetrack the next day. That day he lost $80, and size the started back to the city he invited me to accompany him to the racetrack the next day. That day he lost $50, and after the races, he showed me a card, which, he said, bore his right name, Frank J. Dale.

"This aroused my suspicions, and I went to the police station to get a look at Seely's photograph on the circular offering $5000 for his arrest. I had seen the circular before, and when I got a second look I was sure that my new acquaintance was Seely. We went to the track the third day and Seely won some money, but he lost again the fourth day. We met each other every day at the Lincoln Hotel, on the North Side, and last Friday while we were talking. Seely took his pencil and wrote his real name on a card. "Did you ever hear of that man" he asked me. I told him that I had read in the newspapers of a man by that name who had skipped from New York with a pile of money.

"Well, I'm that man," he said, and then he asked me if I was going to give him up."

MacFarland said that Seely was pressed for money last Thursday and had to pawh his watch and chain. The next day he received $100 by mail, which he said had been sent by his wife, who had received it from his attorney. Seely, after confessing his identity to MacFarland, talked freely about his connection with the Shoe and Leather Bank: He said that he had been a dupe for Baker, and that he had received but $10.000 in the nine years during which the bank had suffered losses. Baker, he said, got all the rest of the money. MacFarland says that he will divide the $5000 reward with the two detectives. MacFarland was employed until the strike as an assistant special agent for the Chicago and Alton Railway Company. Since then he has been out of work.

Seely's remarkable coolness and persistency in denying his identity has completely baffed the detectives, and they had determined to await the New York officers before making further, efforts, when about noon the prisoner told his guard that he wished to see the man in charge of the detective force. Inspector Shea and his lieutenant promptly responded, entering the inspector's office, where the suspect had been confined.

"Be seated, gentlemen," said Seely, as the officers appeared, and somewhat dazed at his nonchalance they sait down.

"Now, gentlemen," he continued, "I wish to thank you for your courtesy and kindness since our meeting last night. I have told you repeatedly that my name is Dale, but I have become tired of the deception. I had no sleep last night; I am weary, My name is Seely-Samuel C. Seely, late book-keeper of the National Shoe and Leather Bank of New York. That is what I wished to say to you."

I had no sleep last night: I am weary. My name is Seely—Samuel C. Seely, late book-keeper of the National Shoé and Leather Bank of New York. That is what I wished to say to you."

"Do you care to say anything about your case?" asked the inspector.

"Not a thing. I am ready and willing to go back to New York. I will not make any trouble about extradition. As soon as the proper New York officials arrive I will go with them."

The officers attempted to secure some sort of a statement from Seely in regard to his connection with the great steal, but he carefully avoided making admissions or denials. Feeling his efforts in that line unavailing. Inspector Shes had the magnitaken to the Harrison-street station, where he was locked up in a cell to await the arrival of the New York officers.

rival of the New York officers.
Seely's headquarters at the Harrisonstreet station were much less comfortable than those which he had occupied at headquarters, where he was allowed to remain in the luxurious private office of Inspector Shea. But the stuffy, ill-smelling cell had apparently no terrors for the ex-bookkeeper, and, removing his ulster, he made himself comfortable in the iron bunk. His vocabulary became very limited as soon as the small door closed behind him, and to all questions he simply replied: "I have nothing to say."

H. E. MacFarland, the young man whose information led to Seely's arrest, was slow in following up his conquest today. Although anxiously awaited by the authorities, he had not put in an appearance up to noon, and no one knew his whereabouts.
Seely's action in voluntarily confessing his identity, to a passing acquaintance, after having displayed such keenness in evading arrest was the subject of much speculation. MacFarland had said that Seely met him on the street, invited him to the races, and, after several days' companionship, had calmiy informed him that he was samuel C. Seely, wanted in New York for the theft of $454,000.

The police were inclined to the belief that MacFarland's story might be subject to variations. It was believed by many of the detectives that the informant was an old acquaintance of the fugitive and that the allurements of the $5000 reward had got the better of his friendship. On this subject, however, Seely was silent as a clam and the öfficers were forced to be content with speculation pending the appearance of young MacFarland. Whatever evidence, if any, had been found at No.
487 La Salle avenue, the fashionable boarding-house at which Seely had been arrested, the police had refused to say. It was shown that no papers of importance and a solitary $100 bill were found on his person, and it was not thought that any incriminating evidence had been direovered in his room.

person, and it was not thought that any incriminating evidence had been discovered in his room.

During the afternoon MacFarland put in an appearance at detective headquarters. He was apparently laboring under a rather heavy burden of intoxicants and his conversation was not particularly lucid. He was able, however, to make his hearers understand that he was hot after that $5000 reward and that he intended to have it all. He would, he declared, divide with no one. After making something of a scene at headquarters, he left, but returned some time during the afternoon and made numerous demands for the reward.

Detectives who were sent out to look up the informer's record, reported that he had been for a week boasting to his friends that he knew where to find Seely. MacFarland, according to the officers, is any ardent admirer of the flowing bowl and many of his acquaintances say that he freely, during the last week, while intoxicated Had declared that he would soon clear $5000 by a clever bit of detective work. MacFarland is a rather good-looking man, perhaps 25 years old, dresses well though flashily, and is said to frequent racetracks. Owing to his condition, the officers were unable to learn anything regarding his acquaintaince with Seely.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Turkish legation has received the following official communication: "The Armenian agitators, who made their appearance in the steep mountains of Talouri, situated between Sassoum, in the southwest of Moush (villayet of Bitlis) and district of Calb of the Mutessariat of Guendji, combined their forces at the instigation of a certain Hampartsoum, who, under the assumed name of Mourat, was already giving trouble in those regions. This Hampartzoum, after having for eight years studied medicine in the civil medical school and participated in the disorders of Coup Capou, fied to Atheres and thence to Geneva. He afterward went disguised, and, under an assumed name, by way of Alexandret, from Darkbro to the neighborisod of Bitlis, and began seditious agitation together with five other invididuals.

Agha, and assaulted and murdered Mussulmen women of three houses of the village of Guill-Guset. They also tortured many Mussulmen, forcing them to kiss the cross, putting their eyes out, cutting their ears off, and submitting them to most horrible indignities. After having brought consternation and death among the Mussulmen and Christians alike, they refused to surrebder and continued criminal proceedings. Regular troops were sent to the spot and put down their rebellion.

"Chief Hampartsoum fied to a high mountain with eleven associates. He was captured alive, not, however, without killing two soldiers and wounding six. By the end of August last all insurgents were dispersed. Women, children and invalids were treated with due consideration, and according to the dictates of Islamism and humanity. The insurgents who were captured will be punished by law.

"Now, these insurgents, under command of Hampartsoum, abandoning, toward the latter part of July last, their respective villages, and after having placed in inaccessible spots of their wives, children and belongings, and having secured the coperation of other armed insurgents that came from the valley of Moush and from the districts of, Calb and Selvan, assembled tagether, numbering more than three thousand, at a place called Endouk-Dagh. Five or six hundred decided to fall upon Moush. They began by attacking a tribe of Delikans on Mt. Gorlink, in the south of Moush; killed a few of them and robbed them of their belongings. All Mussulmen that fell into their hands were insulted in their religion and murdered in a most horrible fashion. The regular troops in the neighborhood of Moush were also attacked by these insurgents, who, however, did not dare to attack Moush itself, owing to the strong military forces of the town."

COAST RECORD. THE OREGON'S PERIL

Driven Almost Ashore by a Terrific Gale.

A Most Miraculous Escape of Vesse and Crew Last Sunday.

& Bogus Detective Robs a Woman-Berkeley Hazers to be Punished.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

PORTLAND (Or.,) Dec. 11.—Last night the steamship Oregon from San Francisco arrived safely in port, after the narrowest escape from shipwreck that vessel has ever experienced during her long career on the Pacific Coast. Thursday morning she left San Francisco with only about one hundred and fifty tons aboard all told, and was drawing only nine feet forward and sixteen feet aft. As the vessel is in the freight service, no passengers were carried.

In coming up the coast Capt. Pohlman kept far out to sea, so as to take no risks. No very rough weather was encountered until the lightship was sighted off the mouth of the Columbia, at 10 o'clock on Saturday night. The Oregon then beto cross the bar early Sunday morning. But, at 11 o'clock, the barometer began to fall. Soon after a tremendous south-west gale set in. Capt. Pohiman stood to fall. Soon after a tremendous southwest gale set in. Capt. Pobliman stood out to sea, but the gale was so heavy that he/could make but little headway. The gale kept increasing in violence until about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, when it was almost a hurricane. The Oregon could not face it, and began drifting toward the shore. So light was the ship forward that she could not be made to face the storm, but would constantly play off.

The vessel was so light that the pipes which supply the condenser with water did not work well and the engines oculd not be worked effectively. The steamer kept slowly drifting toward shore, despite every effort, that could be made, until the lighthouse station at Cape Mears, just above Tillamook, was not more than six miles away.

All day Sunday the Oregon made a desperate fight against the fury of the storm, but she continued to approach the line, of breakers. This struggle continued until 5:30 o'clock Sunday evening, and just when all on begard had about abandoned hope, suddenly the wind shifted one point in favor of the vessel. After a hard battle the steamer passed danger and stood farout to sea, but was not able to cross the har until yesterday morning. Capt. Pohlman and all the crew say that it was a miraculous escape. The captain today was the recipient of many warm congratulations.

FEARLESS.

ASTORIA (Or.,) Dec. 11.—The Spreckels tug Fearless of Saa Francisco is in port, having brought the Norwegian ship Breidabilk through one of the worst storms that ever raged on the Pacific Coast. The Fearless came into port with her decks sprung and leaking badly. Her compass-cover was blown away by the terrific force of the wind and everything movable on deck was washed overboard. Sunday afternoon the vessels were running before the wind, when a heavy sea came over the tug's istern, burying her so that only the pilot-house was out of water. This sea sprung the heavy doors to the house and completely wrecked the handsome private apartments of Spreckels by defuging the inside with water. After the tug righted itself she was hove round to the sea and steamed ahead under a slow bell. Another monster sea went over her bows and, striking the forward house, smashed the light and sprung the heavy steel walls so that a closet frame, two inches from the wall, was torn from its fastenings. At times the pilot-house had a foot of water over its floor.

the pilot-house had a foot of water over its floor.

The Breidablik was nowhere in sight at this time, having parted company with her for the second time the night previous. The first time they let go the ship was on Friday, when the hawser had to be cut from the top of the tug's house, it being impossible to remain on deck. The ship was picked up early Monday morning off the mouth of the river and was towed in by the Fearless. The big vessel was listing badly to the starboard and reveral times Capl. Arnesen gave up all hope of saving his ship. The tug lost 150 fathoms of hawser, new, and a second one is so badly shared that it will be a total loss. They cost about $800 each.

Capt. Haskell will remain in port until the weather moderates. Fears are entertained for the safety of several vessels known to be due at this port.

In February of that year he uttered a forged security bond for $2000 and, when released on bail supplied by his brother-in-law, James Maloney, immediately skipped. Then his past record came out. He had forged orders on savings banks in which poor people had their savings. Eight indictments are out against him for these offenses. Dore located in Miles City, Mont., in 1889. By his suave manner he secured the confidence of the community which was shaken when he disappeared after swindling the sisters of a religious institution out of $9000. In Seattle a number of clergymen and women rusted him with weight.

The narration of his subsequent crimes would fill a volume. He was employed, it was said, by the notorious Hammond of London fame, or infamy, to collect sums due him from members of the aristocracy whose immunity from prosecution depended on keeping him (Hammond) out of England.

YOUNG CAMPBELL'S CASE. Prospect that the Hazers Will be

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—The hazing of Claude C. Campbell, son of Rev. J. W. Campbell of Los Angeles, will likely cause more trouble. The students who composed the hazing party are getting daily more anxious. The facts that Campbell did not reveal football secrets and that he had withdrawn from college before the Thanksgiving day game make their conduct much less excusable. The committee will report the result of the investigation to the faculty and begin at once to consider what shall be done with the guilty parties.

Prof. Bacon, who is chairman of the committee, was seen in regard to the affair. He said: "There is nothing particularly new in the matter. We have been at work all day, and, as far as the boy is concerned, our labors are campleted. We will now see what can be done with the hazers, but I am not at liberty to intimate any of our intentions." Punished.

will now see what can be done with the hazers, but I am not at liberty to intimate any of our intentions."

From the result of the investigation so far the general opinion of the students seems to be that the hazers will be dropped from the roll at the end of the present semester, and will be requested not to return to the university. Young Campbell is by far the most unconcerned person connected with the affair. When asked what he thought about the inquiry, he replied: "Oh, I don't know anything at all about it. Father has not told me anything, except to pack my trunk and get home as soon as possible, so I guess I am in for it."

Claude C. Campbell left for Los Angeles tonight with his father, Rev. J. W. Campbell. Before his departure, Claude swore out warrants for battery against twelve students concerned in the nazing. Ten were released on $100 bail. Two are ztill hunting bail, in charge of a constable, at a late hour tonight. After the civil suits are disposed of, the faculty will deal with the offenders at its meeting on Thursday night.

A Fine Vessel Falls into the Hands of a Motley Horde—Some of the Culprits are Captured by the British.

the British.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The Herald has the following from Suez:

"Piracy in our times is so rare an occurrence that we can scarcely credit the fact that a large steam vessel has been boarded and plundered in the Gulf of Suez in the very track of passing steamers. Such is the case, however, and the owners and insurers of the steamship Yarrowdale have to deplore the loss of a fine vessel, which was launched a year ago., "On the 8th of October, the steamship Yarrowdale, a large steam vessel of 1100 tons register of Glascow, came through 'Parrowdale, a large steam vessel of 1100 tons register of Glascow, came through 'Parrowdale, a large steam vessel of 1100 tons register of Glascow, came through 'Parrowdale ashore at Abu Naha's reet, near the Shadwan lighthouse. The agents in Suez were communicated with and dispatched the necessary assistance, consisting of the steamer Hodeldah, two salvage pumps, a diver and his assistants, and about one hundred Arab coolies. While steam was being raised the natives in their boats saw their prey was likely to escape. A rush was made for the unfortunate vessel, and a motley horde of some three hundred men, armed with hives, swords and hatchets, poured on board. To resist was worse than useless, as there were no weapons on board. Everyone was driven from his post and the work of destruction commenced.

"Ropes, brasses, woodwork were torn away and provisions stolen. In fact, a regular scene of pillage was enacted. Some of the pirates set to work to cut the pipes that conveyed the steam to the winches, and two of their number were scalded to death by the escape of the steam. Another, getting his hand estangled in some ropes, had it actually wrenched off while one or two more were stabbed by their companions. The news that the Yarrow-dale had been pillaged spread quickly. Information was given to the local authorities as well as to Her Britannic Majesty's Consul, but it was fully three days before any move was made.

which is referred to is for a line which his company contemplated building through to the great Sloux reservation. It was to have been built from Chamberlin, S. Miller said that the grant for the right of-way from the government had been forfeited nearly a year ago, and that the present notice was merely a formal declaration by the government of the forfeit by the railroad company. CHICAGO. Dec. II.—Liberal export clearances and Bradstreet's report of the decrease in wheat stocks east of the Rockies, on the Pacific Slope. In Europe and affoat, pushed up wheat today, and May closed %c higher. May corn closed unchanged. May oats %c higher, and provision show little change. Wheat, aithough opening about %c lower than it closed yesterday, was much firmer subsequently than had been expected. The government report had apparently been discounted yesterday, and, although rather bearishly construed, the "shorts" were ready and willing to buy all the wheat the "longs" were groosed to sell on account of it, although Pardridge was a seller. The comparative strength of the opening was in spite of receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth numbering 725 cars, as against 554 cars on the corresponding day of last year, and lower foreign markets. Another bearish feature of the statistical news was shipments from all exporting countries; outside of the United States and Canada, last week of wheat and flour to the amount of 5.712,000 bushels. An advance under such circumstances was rather a surprise to the trade, but the opening purchases were made at the lowest prices of the day, May sold at $56,55%, very little of it, however, at 59. It improved until, about 12 o'clock, it had got up to 58%. The prices got a further slight hoist and the bulls had additional reassurance when Bradstreet's report of a decrease in wheat stocks east of the Rockies of 314,000 bushels, a decrease on the Pacific Slope of $6,000 bushels, and a decrease in Europe and affoat of 455,000 bushels. Cables also improved in tone as the session progressed. The market closed firm at 59% for May. The price of May corn was 49% at the opening and 49% bid at the close, with 50 paid for a

AMERICAN POLITICS.

Americans, especially the unthink ing classes, have been prone of late to talk a good deal about the oppression of classes and the necessity for governmental reform-losing sight of the fact that in a free country the ple are the government-that public opinion is the actual sovereign of a republic like our own. No lasting ills, no power of public oppression no class legislation can long prevail in a country where public opinion is erally enlightened. It is folly for a free people to set up intangible methings to fight against if things do not go to please them. The responsibility for wrong, for misgovernnent-and for all sorts of political abuses must be laid primarily at the door of a wrong public sentiment which tolerates abuses, and winks at them for its own selfish ends.

If we would reform the governmen must first begin with the individual who is a unit of that governmental whole. Let us look first to ourselves personally, and see wherein our opin ions need reformation and change If every individual will but put himself right we shall soon have a gov ernment that we can trust to govern and a nation whose acts and whose laws every other civilized nation will seek to emulate.

American government has more to contend with now than it had in the earlier days of its history. We are feeling everywhere today, in all the departments of official power, the influence of the ignorant alien sentiment that has come among us, and which is inimical to free and enlightened sentiment. We cannot thrust this aside at once; we have to work patiently to educate it to something better, to fit it for citizenship and intelliparticipation in public affairs. There will be many a snag that the old ship of state will run against before this can be accomplished. We shall need special work to mould the nation's affairs, and we must, first of all awaken the sense of personal responsibility in the minds of the masses before we can achieve reform where abuses have crept in that will enable us to correct them.

Washington in his last message to Congress recognized the necessity for the education of the young men of the county in statecraft, and suggested the establishment of schools for the purpose of educating the youth of the land in the science of government, be lieving that "the more homogeneous our cftizen can be made in these particulars, the greater will be our prospect of permanent union." The truth of this is beyond question. The principles of free government should be more generally taught in our schools and no uneducated alien should be permitted to vote until he has an in telligent knowledge of the Constitution United States and the laws which govern them. The alien should be made to understand better than he now does in what liberty consists, and its intimate dependence upon law The sovereign citizen should be taught respect his own sovereignty and the weight of responsibility it car-fles with it, and when the masses realize that this is "a government of the people and for the people and by the people" the dangers which threaten this republic will be materially less.

The measure now before the Senate providing for "cloture," or the closing of debate under certain conditions, is a move in the right direction. The majority of a deliberative body clearly a right to control the methods of ture, and a recalcitrant minority as dearly has not the right to obstruct legislation and prevent action by dilatory and malicious tactics. It is to be noped that the measure will pass, and that it will effectively break down the moss-covered conservatism which has enabled the Senate on numerous occasions to plant itself squarely across the path of legislative progress.

der solicitude for "Lo, the poor In-dian," but his humanityrianism does The new American-Japanese treaty accords to Japanese laborers the same rights of immigration to the United States as are enjoyed by laborers from European nations. The Japanese are by no means so undesirable a class of immigrants as are the Chinese; yet they are accustomed to work for ex-tremely low wages in their own country, and should they come to our shores in any considerable numbers would present a serious problem. However, it lies within the province of Congress to pass as stringent anti-im-migration laws as may be deemed cheary, and nothing in the treaty aid be in conflict with such laws.

I could have had no such dealings with this company, except through its regular authorized board of directors, and the same would be shown by the records of meetings of said directors; and I invite the creditors to an inspection of the books and records of this company, which are now in my possession and which will show the said circular letter to be libelous and simply a subterfuge or effort to relieve himself of a personal obligation, which he has been promising these various creditors for the past eight months to pay.

The bere statement which he makes that said company now owns $21,000 worth of property is sufficient without argument on my part to demonstrate the character of the man, and the absolute disregard which he has for the truth.

Asking your pardon for having troubled you with this explanation, I as very respectfully, BUDA PESTH, Dec. 11.—(By the Atlantice Cable.) The was a scene of unparalleled excitement in the Reichsrath yesterday, when Dr. Wekerle, the Prime Minister, announced that the King of Hungary (Emperor Francis Joseph) had given his sanction to the ecclesiastical bills. The members rose in a body and cheered for several minutes. The house rapidly emptied, and the members passed around and congratulated Dr. Wekerle and the Hungarian Minister of the Interior, who had gone to the lobbies. The members have the highest hopes that the firm position which they have maintained on the ecclesiastical bills will enable them to carry out further reforms.

The ecclesiastical bills to which the sanction has been given include measures legalizing civil marriages, allowing the conversion of Christians to Judaism, granting religious liberties to Hebrews and removing the restrictions with regard to the children of mixed marriages, in fact, the bills provide for complete religious freedom in Hungary. All the measures, with the exception of that in regard to the children of mixed marriages, were bitterly opposed by the clericals. Not only the Roman Catholics, but the Greek orthodox bishops fought against the adoption of the measures.

SUPERVISORS MEET

The Chamber of Commerce Entertains Them.

Representatives from All Parts of Southern California Were Present.

Addresses Made by President Dan Freeman and a Number of the Visitors—Another Session to be Held Today.

The visiting Supervisors of Southern conditions spent a pleasant afternoon yester by at the Chamber of Commerce forom 1, in the capacity of merabers of the convention, called for the purpose of the convention, called for the purpose of mutual conference and exchange of civilities. It was the first gathering of the kind which has ever been held in this city, but it will probably not be the lard. The interests of all parts of Southern California beit was closely allied, has lead the effect of a reating a bond of union between the sour kernmust counties, which is not felt so sti onely north of the Tehacherl Mountains, and it was with a hachen Mountains, and it was with a view of fostering the spirit and awaken-ing new interest, the the meeting of the Supervisors the Supervisors was a tranged for.

the Supervisors was a Tranged for.

The visitors began to arrive yesterday at the Chamber of Com merce rooms as early as it o'clock. As the year and is o'clock. As the year at the perintendent Wiggins and Sectutary Willard took them in charge, and saw that they were properly cared for. A special Reception Committee also as led in extending the hospitalities of the chamber. The cold lunch was partaken of heartly by all, and the California wine was sampled frequently. The discussion as the megting which followed was of a governly order, no particular topic being takes up in the course of the short session, which was made more in the nature of a so, is agathering than a business meeting.

PRESIDENT FREEMAN'S ADDRESS.

PRESIDENT FREEMAN'S ADDRESS. At 2:15 o'clock President Dan Freema d Secretary Willard took seats at a table, the commodious clubroom. The call order was responded to promptly, and a few moments the guests had arranged smallers facing the president's cha'r. Freeman stated that he had prepare I somewhat lengthy speech for delivery the meeting, but that as there were n'any representative men present, who uld have something interesting to say, won, I can his remarks short. He then bke as follows:

would have something interesting to say, he won, d'ent his remarks short. He then spoke as follows:

"Gentles ven: You come together today at the call of the Champer of Commerce of Los Angel-s. Supervisors of seven countles—from San'ts Barbara and Ventura, on the north, Riverside and San Bernardino on the east, Oran'ge and San Diego on the south, and from Les Angeles in the center. You are the local hiw-makers of Southern California, elected by the suffrages of your neighbors to guide the business affairs of our individual counties, and upon your administration depends, in a large measure, the future welfare of all this section. No set of men or of officials has the power to accomplish greater good for Southern California than yourselves, and upon none does a greater responsibility rest.

"The present is a critical epoch in the listory of Southern California. A continuous stream of immigration is pouring into this country, attracted largely by the wark at the World's Fair and by the wide dissemination of ligrature that preceded it. They come ast to appeculate in lands, but to plant them, not to talk sentiment about the climate, but to grow fruit and vegetables and cereals. Some of them bring capital to help develop the country. They are starting new industries, opening up new lines of trade and commerce, and in their confidence and enthusiasm they even go beyond these of us who have been a much longer period here on the ground. They are the right kind of people— no country could ask for botter—not an ignorant and squalid foreigner, who brings with him a blight of poverty and anarchy, but people of our own sort and kind, out of the progressive, enterprising American West. Let no one question as to their portation facilities, better freight rates for our products as the volume to be exported increases, greater influence for this section in the affairs of the State and in the halis of Cohgress, better times for us all and for the various sections that we represent. In all our pride over the wonderful resources of our country—its fertile soil, its perfect climate and the variety of its horticultural products, we must not forget that this is essentially a new country and but sparsely populated. Iowa, where the farms avorage five or six times the six of our fruit ranches, has thirty-four people to the square mile, while in Southern California, leaving out all the mountains and desert land, we find only thirteen to the square mile. To build up a new business requires capital; to build up a new country requires people. We are new country requires people. We are still suffering from under-production in the very necessities of life. When it takes a a new country requires people. We are still suffering from under-production in the very necessities of life. When it takes a train of cars nearly a mile long to bring into this State the eggs that the enterprising hens of Kansas and Iowa lay for us, and when we import annually over 4000 carloads of bacon, poultry, dried fruits and other products to the value of $5,000,000, that could be raised here, let no one creak about overdoing things in this country. Ten years ago, when a great flood of new people swept into this end of the State, doubling, tripling, quadrupling the population in a surprisingly short time, many of our old-timers went about whispering to one another, "What in the world will they find to do? They will all starve here!" But they didn't starve. They went to work and settled down, for the most part, into prosperous and contented citizens. Some of them, indeed, have so successfully grown up with the country that they have been elected to the office of Supervisor and age here with us today.

"It is, within your power as local law-makers and as custodians of the funds or your individual counties to increase or to discourage this immigration of new settlers into the country. It is true that the fund which is placed in your hands by the State law is not so great as it should be, amounting to only $1000 in the case of most of your counties, but by a discreet use of that fund in co-operation with the other counties of the section, much can be accomplished. Three years ago this month, a meeting was held at the old quarters of the Chamber of Commerce at which a number of you were present, when the Southern California Bureau of Information was founded. Through that organization the sum of $6000 was raised, partly from the Supervisors and partly from subscriptions. Of this sum, Los Angeles paid two-thirds, which was more than her share; but no objection was raised by the outside counties on that score. Fifty thousand copies of a large and handsomely-lilustrated book were printed at a cost or $4000, and th od work as an example of the efficacy of good work as an example of the efficacy of co-operation.

"We have ealled you togethet today, gentlemen, to talk of work of this act; for all Southern California; to show you the exhibit of the chamber in its new and enlarged quarters, in order that you may have a clearer idea of its scope and character and its power tor good to the whole section, and we beg now to assure you that in anything which you may desirs to undertake for the welfare of Southern California, you will find this organization always ready with active and hearty co-operation. We are firmly of the opinion that the advancement of Los Angales as the metropolis of Southern California, is bound up with the general prosperity of all this section. We are firmly of the opinion; has bound up with the general prosperity of all this section. We are sunalterably opposed to the narrow, sectional spirit that proposes to build up one part of our country at the expense of another. We look upon Southern California as a unit of which it is our good fortune to be geographically and commercially the center. In working for ourselves we must work for you, and in working for you we benefit our swa city. Through the various organizations which have represented this section of the State in World's Fair, Midwinter Fair and general immigration work, our counties have been brought closely together, and we monious, energetic, enterprising unit. Det that reputation continue; let the enterprise grow stronger, the energy more persistent, and let the harmony remain with us for-ever—such is the earnest hope of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce."

OTHER SPEECHES. M. L. Graff, chairman of the Law Committee, was then called upon to address the meeting. Mr. Graff said that the people of Southern California were interested in a common object, the upbuilding of this part of the State. The Chamber of in a common object, the spbullding of this part of the State. The Chamber of Coramerce furnished means for carrying on this work, the scope of its utility being very extensive. A vast quantity of liferature had been circulated all over the United States and through the agency of the chamber Southern California had been advertised thoroughly. The speaker thought that the laws giving power to the Supervisors to appropriate money to encourage immigration to the States should be amended, in order that this power might be increased. He said that there were many subjects which might with profit be discussed in tile way of general topics, but which it, would hardly be appropriate to bridg up at a meeting of the Supervisors of all of the southern counties. The harber and Stafe division questions were ameng those subjects which would, for obvicus reasons, be avoided in the discussion.

Andrew Muller, one of the trustees, of the Whittier State School, said that he desired to say but a word in the dual capacity of member of the Chamber of Commerce and trustee of the Whittier school. He said that it gave him pleasure to assist in welcoming the guests who had gathored. He referred to the proposed tri to Whittier and promised the Supervisure a pleasant tirge at the Quaker village.

M. L. Ward of San Diego county made a lage.

M. L. Ward of San Diego county made a short speech in answer to a call. He coincided with Mr. Griff in the opinion that the tyeople of Southern California should be united in the general work of upbuilding the country. The spirit of sectionalism should not be prevalent and the speak er believed that it did not prevail to any great extent. San Diego had been spoken of as a dry county. This was a mistalte, for a large proportion of the country was well watered. San Diego county could be depended upon to do her share of the work of development.

I. W. Lord of. San Bernardino county was laboring under considerable suppressed emotion and much pentung eloquence. His remarks, very naturally, were of a highly disconnected order. He said that he only talled by way of diversion, which was certainly a fact.

M. Hoover of Riverside county. M. Blackstock of Ventura county and E. A. Forrester of Los Angeles ceunty. A. R. Williams of Santa Barbara county and J. Yoch of Orange county made brief remarks.

In the torm of a telegraph dispared to be sent to Senator Morgan, Washington: "The convention of Supervisors of Southern California send greeting. We commend your zealous championship of the Nica ragua (Canal measure. The busisouthern California send greeting. We people of our own sort and kind, out of the progressive, enterprising American West. Let no one question as to their coming. In Los Angeles city $2,200,600 worth of new buildings have been erected within the last year, of which sum enough was expended for residences alone to call for an increase of the population by eight or ten thousand people, yet today a vacant house is hard to find in the city.

"Los Angeles being the central point, where the railroads come together, settlers who are undecided as to their final location, remain here temporarily until the advantages of some outside section is brought to their notice. From the reports that reach us, however, it seems that all sections of Southern California are receiving their share of the new immigration, as all have participated equally in the work which has helped to bring it here.

"The coming of these people means greater prosperity to the country, greater prosperity to the country, greater development of its resources, better transportation facilities, better freight rates for our products as the volume to be exported

"Third, that we are every citizen of Southern California to correspond with his friends in Congress, a iso with influential persons anywhere who may be able to assist in bringing about the desired end."

F. E. Davis of Ventura county offered a resolution relative to county government laws which was adopt ed. The resolution was as follows:

"Resolved, that it is the sense of the Supervisors and Supervisors-elect of Southern California in convintion assembled at Los Angeles this day, December 11, 1894, that the sum allowed by the Geunty Government Act to the boards of supervisors of the first second, third and fourth classes for the purpose of immigration, should be increased from $2500 to $4500, and that the sum allowed for similar purposes to the counties of all other classes be increased from $1000 to $2500."

The advisability of laolding another meeting, or appointing committees to center together and make recommendations for improvements in methods of county government, was discussed at some length, an adjournment being finally taken to this afternoon at 2 ocleck. After the adjournment carriages were taken for the depot, and a large number of the delegates went to Whittier to spind the night.

John Williams was arrested by Officer Johnson yesterday for stealing two pairs of trousers, the property of Annie Lorinden of Commercial street. The first pair he sold for 50 cents in a second-hand store on First street and the second pair he got 80 cents for at a store on First, near Los Angeles.

By the time the thief had disposed of the goods Officer Johnson had been notined and was on his trail. The 'man saw him coming and broke into a run down First street but Constable Richardson in his buggy headed him off and turned him over to Officer Johnson as he came up.

When Justice Seaman heard the evidence he found Williams guilty and committed him for septence today at 1:30 p. m.

Robert Offibs was found guilty of disturbing the peace yesterday by Justice Seaman, and was sentenced to pay a $5 fine. Gibbs was arrested at the instance of W. S. McCloy of No. 344 South Spring threet, for whom Gibbs had done some leading around a stevepipe for McCloy, and the latter produced the man $1 for the job. But the broad Gitbs would take no less than $2 fibr it, and was determined to howe, that money, whereat McCloy told him if he could not take $1, he could go up and take off the lead. So Gibbs ripped off the leading, incidentally damaging the roof, and the peace of the affant. Now he is out his work, his pay and a $2 fine for losing his temper. Lost His Temper.

All Pleaded Guilty. The fare gamblers caught by Detectives Auble and Hawley were up before Justice Austin yesterday and all pleaded guilty fined $125, and Ed Smith and E. Wilson, players, $100 each.

E. B. Gifford, alias E. B. Smith, a spectator at the game, has already been fined $75 for that pleasure, so thus far the delight of indulging in faro has been a rather expensive luxury. The cost of the table and other paraphernalia confiscated by the police, probably raached nearly $200, and that, with this added cost of $350 in fines, will probably put a damper on gambling for some time.

E. E. Bean will explain the matter to Judge Seaman this afternoon.

WALK right in without knocking. The cloaks we have for sale at a big reduction must be examined and tried on before we can hope to sell you. You can s the original price on every garment and from this we will give you a good big reduction. In reading the advertisement of a New York business man the remarkable statement was made that he had increased his business over 1000 per cent. through the methods he employed in advertising. In studying his methods he was found to be advertising very largely and selling his goods very much less than any competitor in the same line of business. If he could do this, why couldn't we? The aggregate profits would be larger. The business more satisfactory. The trade would be better satisfied. We commenced to sell dress goods at a big reduction. We advertised the fact in over twenty papers and the trade is more than treble what it was a year ago. We are selling out all our finest imported dress goods that have been selling for 60c to 85c a yard for 50c. This includes all our finest and best goods. We are selling out a large lot of fine imports dress goods that have been selling from $1 to $2 a yard for We are selling out a big lot of silk and velvet remnants at a big reduction from the regular price. We are now largely increasing the cloak trade. Two weeks ago we commenced to sell cloaks at a big reduction. We now state that we have sold more than four times as many cloaks as we had been selling in the same length of time. This is a remarkable statement and true in every way. Every cloak in this house, every fur and every shawl and cape is being largely cut in price. On the first day of January there will be remarkable improvements made in the interior of this house. The stocks will be changed around and enlarged. From now on the prices will be cut more severely than ever. The trade will begin to show a large increase. The increase has been large the past two months. This is only an-indication what it will be when the new and more progressive ideas take a firmer hold on the public. Now is the time to buy cloaks and dress goods at the biggest reduction ever made in this city. Elegant canes free with a $5 purchase. Monday was the largest day's trade we have had for a year. The low prices have taken a firm hold on the public. Remember the cash must come with the sale.

He said that already so me of the real estimate had begun to make capital of tate men had begun to make capital of the fact, and were advertising that the property they were offer ing for sale was where the oil would not reach it, and was, herefore, more to be desired. Councilman Munson said perhaps it was not generally understood that if the pipe for the ranks connecting reservoir No. 4 with Westlake Park was to be replaced by a substantial new pipe there would be no water running in the Arroyo de los Reyes, which arroyo carries the oil, except in time of heavy rain, and hence only at auch time of rain would the oil be carried such time of rain would the oil be carried to the Fifth Ward.

Hearing on the protests against, the abandonment of Figueroa street between Sixth and Pico streets was next taken up, and Will D. Gould, Esq., was heard in behalf of the protestants. In order to carry out said compromise it is necessary to abandon the alleged street between said points, and thereby to remove the cloud upon the titles of all the property-owners in the line of said alleged street, between Pico and Sixth streets, they having paid about one-half of the $1500 subscribed as aforesaid. As matters now stand, the property along the line of the alleged street, between said points, is clouded and unsalable, while no benefit is being derived by any one for the reason that the alleged street has never been opened, and cannot be, without the confiscation and destruction of a very large amount of property; wherefore, we further recommend that, after the abandonment of said portion of said Figueroa street, a quit-claim deed thereto be executed by the city of Los Angeles to the property-holders owning lands in the line of said street, between said points, quit-claiming and releasing all claims of said city in and to said lands, expressly reserving and excepting from said deed all streets and alleys lying in

We submit that no assessment of damages is necessary in order to effect such abandonment, the said alleged street having never been opened og traveled between said points, and there being no property fronting thereon, or dependent upon said street for ingress, it appears that no assessment is necessary, and, therefore, under the law the Council can proceed to abandon said alleged street without the appointment of commissioners or assessment of damages."

In connection with the same matter the following report was presented by the City Engineer:

"In the matter of the protests against the abandonment of Figueroa street, between Sixth and Seventh streets, and between Sixth and Tenth streets, I find the only persons signing said protests who own property in the district to be affected by said abandonment, are the following: W. A communication from W. S. House was read as follows:

"I beg leave to call your attention to the saloon located at No. 415 South Main street, known as the Senate. A complaint comes from W. J Heldreth, a young man who recently came down from the mines at Acton to this city, and was in said Senate saloon on Wednesday, December 5. and was invited by the proprietor into a private room and then introduced to a woman of the class, which frequents such places. She in return introduced Heldreth to two men, who are well known to the proprietor of whom he refuses to furnish any information. The cards and dice were introduced and they proceeded to fleece him, winning $12 from him, and the woman, who sat on Heldreth's knee during the game, took from his pocket a roll of greenbacks amounting to $40. At the time and during the game the proprietor was carrying drinks to the party and he well knew their object and the character of the parties.

"The proprietor has acted very indifferent to the same to the character of the parties."

mitted.

He was particularly examined by the defendant's counsel as to the indications of a struggle which he noticed in the muddy road near the spot where he found the body; and an evident effort was made upon cross-examination to make it appear that Watson might have been caught by one of the wheels of the wagon and dragged for some distance, but to no purpose.

one of the wheels of the wagon and dragged for some distance, but to no purpose.

Patricio J. Watson testified to having helped Ashworth to load a wagon with wood in the morning, and to seeing the defendant and his brother Manuel talking on the road about 6 o'clock that evening. The latter was on horseback and Ashworth was in the wagon, but got down, just before witness, who was driving home from Wilmington, lost sight of them. Later on while stabling his horse, witness heard his brother cry out, but when Marco Muchatto, an Italian ranch hand, called his attention to the cry he supposed his brother was chasing cattle and thought no more of the matter.

J. Williamson, a former "trusty" at the County Jail, identified a pair of bloodstained boots as those which the defendant wore when he was first brought to that institution.

The proceedings were enlivened from time to time by the persistency with which Mr. Woolner of counsel for the defendant, trespassed beyond the limits in cross-examining witnesses, as it gave rise to frequent spats between the attorneys, even his own colleagues objecting to it. The climax was reached, however, just before court adjourned for the day, when in response to the court's reprimand N. C. Bledsoe, Esq., informed the court that Mr. Woolner was acting upon his own responsibility in this matter, and insisted that it be shown in the record that he Gliedsoe) was not such a consummate ass and infernal fool as to think that the line (Bledsoe) was not such a consummate as and infernal fool as to think that the lin of questions asked by his colleague werproper cross-examination.

The case will be taken up again at 10 o'clock this morning.

SIGNED THE DEATH WARRANT. In Department One yesterday morning Judge Smith attached his signature to the death warrant for John Craig, the triple death warrant for John Craig, the triple murderer, setting the execution of the condemned man for Friday, February 15 next; but whether or not Craig will suffer the extreme penalty of the law on that date remains to be seen, for his attorneys filed a formal notice of an appeal to the Supreme Court on his behalf, and should the appeal be perfected, all proceedings will necessarily be stayed until the questions raised shall have been passed upon. The warrant of execution reads as follows:

In the Superior Court of the State of California, within and for Los Angeles county. The People of the State of California, plaintiff, vs. John Craig, defendant—Death warrant.

To the Sheriff of Los Angeles county and the warden of the State Prison of the State of California, at Folsom, be it remembered, greeting:

That on the twenty-third day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, John Craig was duly and without qualification found guilty of murder in the first degree, in the Superior Court, county of Los Angeles, State of California, and in the eighth day of December, in said year said court duly rendered and there was then and there regularly entered against said John Craig judgment as follows: "That you, the said John Craig, as punishment for the crime of which you have been convicted, suffer the penalty of death. Now, therefore, it is hereby determined and fixed by this warrant of execution in said case that the said John Craig suffer the penalty of the State Prison of the State of California at Folsom. senence, and was committed to San Quentin for the term of two years.

Upon examining Ellis's hands and learning that the defendant had stolen a couple of sealskin capes from the house, Judge Smith sentenced him to San Quentin for two years in short order, whereat Ellis remarked that he did not think that justice had been done him.

EVANGELIST PRATT.

HIS METINGS CONTINUED WITE UNABATED INTEREST.

Three Services During the Day-He is Asked to Remain in the City During the Rémainder of the Week.

The union revival services on the East Side continue with unabated interest. The attendance at the bible reading at the Asbury M. E. Church was the largest since Mr. Pratt began. A Thanksgiving service was field in which many particlpated. Mr. Pratt gave an interesting bible reading on "Service of God Along the Line of Obeliceses".

reading on "Service of God Along the Line of Obedience"

The night services opened with a short song service. The large congregation joined heartily in singing "His Loving Kindness, Oh, How Great," "The Harvest Time" and other songs. Mr. Pratt gave an expository reading of the scriptures. Many enjoy these readings as well if not better than his sermons, and the sermons are of a superior prder.

Rev. Hill offered prayer, after which the congregation sang "At the Cross."

Mr. Platt spoke on "Belief and Unbelief" from the text "Dest thou believe on the Son of God." This is the pivotal question of life. Some say it is not a question of belief, but of conduct. Belief affects conduct. A man is as his thoughts. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." You can almost trace a man's thoughts by his face. Thought stamps its impress on the features. Christ said that "the work of God is to believe on Him whom He hath sent." You cannot do anything acceptable to God until you accept Christ. Through belief we come into right relations with God. Mere assent is not faith. Faith involves everything. Good cenduct follows right faith. Good works represent a self-centered man like the Pharisee who said 'I do thus and so.' Belief in Christ makes a Christ-centered man like the Publican who said 'God be merciful to me a sinner."

Unbelief brought into the world the first who said 'God be merciful to me a sinner.'

Unbelief brought into the world the first sin; crucified Christ; and makes God a liar. Unbelief is the crowning sin. If the gospel be hid it is hid to those that are lost. The God of this world has blinded their eyes. Unbelief is the incarnate field who puts out the eye of faith.

Mr. Pratt's eloquence created a profound impression. Tears flowed and people sat spell-bound. One woman fainted and was carried out. A number rose for prayers. The after meeting was largely attended.

Mr. Pratt will speak tonight at 7:20 o'clock. Bible reading at 3 p. m.

A message was forwarded last night to the pastors of Pomona asking them to release Mr. Pratt until Monday, night. He is due at Pomona the 13th.

na the 13 Rev. Joseph Smith at Paniel Hall,
From 10 o'clock yesterday morning till 10 at night there was an almost continuous meeting at Peniel Hall. Mr. Smith preached morning, afternoon and at night to large crowds, and at the noon hour the usual daily prayer meeting was held, being conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, and attended by a goodly number.
Mr. Smith preached with much power, and was listened to with great interest.
The meeting at night was a specially solemn one, where the evangelist preached as he had promised, from the subject of "The Wedding Garment." taking his text from Matthew xxii, 14: "Many are called, but few chosen." Mr. Smith showed the absolute necessity for a Christian to have his garments washed and made white in the blood of the Lamb, and that boliness of heart is an essential for entrance into God's heavenly kingdom, for "without holiness no man shall see the Lord." The preacher talked at considerable length, but the 'people sat and listened intently to his forcible arguments and teiling illustrations. The invitation was given, and many rose for prayer in the gallery and on the floor of the house, and afterward quite a number found their way to the altar.

Today is Mr. Smith's last day in Los Angeles, and is to be marked with exceptional services all day. In the morning will be a minister's testimony meeting, in the afternoon Mr. Smith will answer the written questions which have been sent in, and at night he will preach his final sermon. Rev. Joseph Smith at Paniel Hall, REVIVAL SERVICES.

The revival services, under the leadership of Evangelist Yatman, began last evening at the tabernacie, where a full house was gathered to hear the initial sermon of the noted divine, Rev. Mr. Yatman, s known all over the country as a preacher of wonderful power and success, and everywhere he has gone the results of his labors have been marked by increased spirtual interest and many conversions. His sermon last evening was in his strongest, most impressive style, and convinced his searers he has a message and is deeply in samest in its delivery. His manner is ifeasing, his words well chosen and free rom the cant of the ordinary evangelist, ind his thoughts logical and full of spiritial power. His text, from II Kings, was:
"Hearken! is it, well, with thy soul?", and a lits elucidation he was argumentative, orausisive and eloquent. At times his apseals and filustrations are full of pathos, its illustrations being especially appropritic and powerful, taken mostly from his was wide experience as a minister. At the lose of the sermon tweive rose and asked for prayers, and the entire audience values of the termon twelve rose and selection that it was teeply moved. The musical feature of the services are under the charge of Prof. Cole, rho has a large chorus choir trained esecially for this work. Miss Bollinger sang

A SOCIAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Congregational Church, postponed from last Tuesday evening on account of rain, did not have much more auspicious weather this evening. These annual meetings are made festive occasions for members of the congregation and invited friends, and an excellent supper is made an acceptable adjunct to the reunion, where joy and good fellowship reigned. Three long tables the full length of the Sunday-achool room were loaded down with delicious things to eat, and all were prettily decorated. E. Groenendyke marshaled the forces, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced Rev. O. D. Fisher, who asked grace. Then he told the assembled people to partake of the viands heaped so generously before them. When the tables had been twice filled with guests and finally emptied of the edibles, then everybody engaged in more conversation. The waiters were young men of the congregation, who performed their parts admirably.

He explained the honey-gathering and digesting organs of the bee, discussed the codding moth of apples, the citrus scale insects, their parasites and destroyers of the latter. The entire talk was full of practical facts and the results of thorough investigation on the speaker's part.

REDIANDS.

REDIANDS, Dec. 11.—(Special Correspondence.) The men at work cleaning the trees and rubbish from the Bear Valley reservoir found the bottom coated with old leaves and a sort of silt, which was raked up with the intentian of burning it. But it was found to be too damp and coated with dirt to burn. It was left raked in long winrows, however, and a norther struck the region in a few days, drying the stuff out so that it burned up easily when a match was touched to it. The reservoir was thus cleaned of its worst dirt.

The presentation of "Pinafore" by local talent at the Academy of Music last week was the source of much comment, which still continues. Kyle should be given the credit for training these amateurs for the performance, Mr. Stewart looking after the music and Mr. Kyle training and managing the stage.

That Fake Railroad Scheme is Still Being Agitated.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 11.—(Special Correspondence.) Promoters of the fake San Diego Pacific Railroad are pounding away at every conceivable opportunity trying to force their discredited scheme upon the attention of the public. At a meeting of the members of the Chamber of Commerce last night to nominate directions of the chamber, the fake railroad project bobbed up again. Dr. Van Norman, a homeopthic physician, and several others, declared that the road was feasible, although the speakers were innocent of any practical showledge of 'railroad building. The local paper, in its report of the meeting, says: "One of the strong points in favor of the proposed road suggested was that it will reduce the price of coal in San Diego to less than half what it is now." San Diegons are too intelligent to be guiled by any such windy clap-trap as that. They know that if that suggestion could be realized, coal would be cheaper here than it now is within several hours' journey from the Pennsylvaria, coalfields, from which fields coal is carried by strong competing lines. Secretary R. H. Young is warmly criticised for practically ignoring the board of directors of the chamber, who have repudiated this fake scheme, which the amiable secretary persists in espousing, although he admits that the personnel of the road's management is obnoxious to reputable criticens.

The overland trains through Pomona now often pull as many as tencoaches, Pullmans, first-class and tourist, on their trips, and sometimes are what are termed "double-headers." ing a Description of All Exhibits from the State of California. Chicago, 1893. (Sacramento: State office.)

This volume, which is a most valuable souvenir of California's share in the great Columbian Exposition, contains upward of three hundred pages, including the text and illustrations. About one-half of the book is devoted to a condensed and impartial description of all State, collective and county exhibits in the California Building at Chicago, and in the different departments or national buildings in Jackson Park. There are sixty-six pages of illustrations, and eighty-eight distinct views, which are reproductions of photographs of actual displays after the latter were installed. Through this book, Calinians and others who are interested in the State, and who were unable to visit Chicago, may obtain an accurate idea of what constituted the agricultural, horticultural, mining, viticultural, forestry, fish and other collective exhibits of the Golden State.

Magazines of the Month.

Harpor's Magazine has some very pleasant features this month, among which are a variety of short stories and very readable poems. One of its most notable contributions is from the pen of Alfred Parsons, "The Time of the Lotus," which gives the reader many a charming glimpse of Japanese life and industry. It is a beautifully illustrated article, with pictures of mountain scenery old temples beautifully illustrated article, with pic-tures of mountain scenery, old temples, blossoming fields and native children. The blossoming fields and native children. The lotus ponds are very fair, and the tea plantations show native houses underneath pleasant shade. At the present time, when the whole civilized world has turned its face toward this island kingdom, the article is especially interesting. Most of the other papers possess attractive merits. The Forum will appeal to the interest of its thoughtful readers. Among the questions discussed in its pages are the labor question, the discontent in the West, the power of the polygamists in the new State of Utah, Christian missions to India, the status and future of woman auffrage, the peace of Europe, apropos of the death of the Czar, together with Lumerous other opportune subjects.

The man himself is selfah. He must be changed. Socialists are curjously blind to the moral deficiencies of men."

The article, as well as others contained in the number, is worthy of serious consideration.

The Jenness Miller Monthly has many a wise word for the Christmas time, with pleasant stories, society sketches and the usual gossip in regard to the fashions, together with valuable hints for the home. It is worthy a place upon the library table, and is a favorite with the wives and daughters of the household.

The American Journal of Politics discusses various questions of popular interest from a most, intelligent standpoint. "The Chino-Japanese War and the Eastern Problems" are thousehully reviewed by J. T. Zokol. It is written from an optimistic standpoint, and the writer says. "I trust that New China will yet arise, as a new and vigorous stem out of an old trunk, and before the twentieth century is half gone she will be exerting her influence, as one of the few greatest nations of the earth."

Among other popular themes considered in this number, are the "Dansers of Paternalism," by G. F. Milton, which is worthy of attentive perusal.

The Century Magazine is in the front ranks, as usual, and presents many a theme worthy of careful study. Most notable of all its contributions, is, perhaps the well-considered and carefully digested article. "What Has Science to do with Religion?" It is from the pen of Augustus J. du Bois, and it leads the reader along logical paths until he is compelled to exclaim with the writer, "The voice that speaks in nature finds responsive echo in the heart of man. logical paths until he is compelled to exclaim with the writer, "The voice that speaks in nature finds responsive echo in the heart of man. Deep answers unto deep," The number is excellent.

The Review of Reviews comes with its regular departments well sustained, and among its special features are "Alexander III., a Tribute to the Late Czar," by W. T. Stead: "On the Threshold of Universal Peace—How to Reconcile France and Germany," "Why Not More Forest Preserves?" by Robert Underwood Johnson. The number contains new portraits of sixty men and women of the day, and about forty other timely illustrations.

An Unsuccessful Attempt at Suicide at the Albemarle.

C. T. Brown is the name of the mys-terious would-be suicide who was found in a room full of gas at the Albemarle about 4 a.m. yesterday, as reported at
